For Immediate Release

ASU Mid-South Home Visiting Services hold Group Meeting Hosted by West Memphis Boys and Girls Club

Home Visiting Services at Arkansas State University Mid-South held its monthly group meeting on May 14 at the West Memphis Boys and Girls Club. The meeting covered fire safety and summer fun and was a huge success with 69 people attending.

The West Memphis Fire Department covered fire safety tips and brought a fire truck for kids to learn about, climb into and take pictures with firemen. The West Memphis Boys and Girls Club presented information about summer programs for children. Special thanks to Darin McCollum of Boys and Girls Club and Division Chief Dewayne Rose.

The Home Visiting Services Department at ASU Mid-South is still taking referrals for prenatal moms and families with children up to age two. Contact Brandy Ivy bivy@asumidsouth.edu for more information.

The next meeting is June 11, from 5:30-6:30 on ASU Mid-South campus in Magruder Hall, Room 108. The theme for June will be Cooking Matters.

About the Home Visiting Services Department at ASU Mid-South

Home Visiting Services are free services to eligible families beginning at the prenatal stage and following the family through until the child turns 3 years old. The program offers support to families while focusing on parent-child interaction, development-centered activities, and family well-being.
